Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1, at line 13, recites "to reinitialize the position of [the] first element," which is indefinite because the claim makes no prior mention of the "initialized" configuration to which this implicitly refers.

Lines 14-16 recite that "first and second displacement phases... remain synchronous with the phases necessary to optimization of the displacement of the first element" (Examiner's emphasis). The "phases" are evidently specified to be "synchronous" with themselves, which is tautological. Further, if Applicant contemplates the relation between the "displacement phases" and the position of the "first element," the nature of their "synchronous" relation is indefinite because it remains undefined. Moreover, the meaning of the "optimization of... displacement" is nowhere defined.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-9 would appear to be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.
